

SOLO-FOUNDER

You are the company.
The day has no edges.

Every hat is you. They all feel equally the job.

Every hat feels equally urgent.

Support, then the dashboard, then a rewrite. None of it finishes.

Looking at MRR is not a task.

It produces no decision. It costs the morning you were going to ship in.

Good intentions don't work.
Mechanisms do.

AN OLD ADAGE AT AMAZON

Name one outcome for the morning.

Everything else is a list, not a second start. Write it down. Park the rest.

THEN DECIDE

70%

OF THE INFORMATION YOU WISH YOU HAD

WHAT IT WRITES

01 RESUME.md

today's one thread — overwritten when the day closes

02 DECISIONS.md

what you ruled out, so research cannot reopen it

03 BAR.md

what "done" means, written before you are attached

INSTALL

```
$ npx skills add akashp1712/skills --skill solo-founder
```

On first use it writes the files. It does not lecture.

FREE · MIT

Close the day on purpose.
Tomorrow starts there.